A solar generator is an energy backup system that uses the sun's energy to produce and store electricity, allowing it to power a home, business, or entire facility without relying on the electrical grid

The origin of solar-powered generators dates back to the broader development of solar photovoltaic technology (also known as PV system). Solar-powered generators began to develop as solar panel technology improved. The space industry first used solar power because it needed light and reliable energy for satellites, which later helped bring solar technology down to Earth for everyday use. The first practical silicon solar cell was developed in 1954 by Bell Labs, marking the beginning of modern
